Mitchell man slain

HENRY GREENE, 51, of 22 Meadowlawn Drive, Mitchell, a Wells Fargo security agent, was slain at high about 90. Low night in upper 60's. Chance of thunderstorms in afternoon. Wind light with high in upper 20's. Windy, and breeze mostly in the 40's.

Greene was escorting a Grant City Department Store employee from the East St. Louis store to the bank with $6,643 in daily receipts, including $1,550 in cash and the remainder in checks.

The employee, Larry Gardner, 23, the store's merchandise manager, said he saw no one near the bank when they drove up to the night depository in Greene's auto.

Gardner opened the passenger door of the car as a man grabbed the money bag from his hand and pointed a pistol at him.

Gardner said he fell to the floor of the car and were followed by a few seconds later. Greene was killed instantly, according to St. Clair County Coroner Dr. C. C. Kane, by a bullet which entered from his upper left arm and passed through both lungs. Greene's heart and his liver, becoming lodged in his right side.

A second shot, fired by the robber on the passenger side, missed Greene and went through the driver's door and into the door panel on the outside of the door.

Witnesses said three robbers ran in different directions after the incident. Before leaving, they stole Greene's service revolver.

Gardner said he did not hear the robbers leave. He stayed on the car floorboard for about 15 seconds and then ran to a nearby garage where he called police. It was reported.

He said the method of depositing receipts with the aid of a Wells Fargo employee had been used for some time.

Prior to being employed by Wells Fargo, Greene was employed by the Alton Dispatch Transportation Corp. in Mitchell and became a carman helper in October 1965. The next year he became a carman.

He left on Dec. 29, 1967, because of a work force reduction and went to work for the Norfolk & Western Railroad in the Brooklyn yards.

Dr. Kane will conduct an inquest tentatively set for this week.

Born in Indian Mound, Tenn., Mr. Greene lived in Dover, Tenn., prior to moving to this area 33 years ago.

He also worked for the Illinois Terminal Railroad for 17 years and for the Norfolk and Western Railroad. He started his employment as a security guard five years ago.

Mr. Greene was a member of Masonic Lodge 877, 12 Club, Scottish Rite Bodies, Ainsworth Temple, Tri-City Shrine Club, Old Fiddlers Bridge, the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen and was an honorary member of the Oriental Band.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Greene; three daughters, Misses Kathy and Linda Greene both of Granite City and Mrs. Joseph (Joyce) Velasquez who is an Army First Class master sergeant; a son, one son, Dennis Greene at home; three brothers, James E. Greene of Belleville, James E. Greene of Springfield, Thurman Greene of Springfield,

County studying 'safety' officers

An effort to preserve the concept of special sheriff deputies will be made at Wednesday's 9:30 a.m. meeting of the Madison County Board.

A joint resolution by the Finance and Legislative Committees urges that Sheriff John Maeras "implement a countywide supervisory of safety in Madison County."

The document asks that the sheriff "set up a program and request an opinion of the state's attorney in relation to the concept and duties, etc., of assistant supervisors of safety."

Adults interested in serving as leaders for the girls also are requested to attend the meeting.

Players still are needed to complete the rosters of both the Midget and Junior Pee Wee division teams. The Midget team consists of boys weighing 115 pounds or less during the season and who will not have reached the age of 13 by Sept. 2 of this year and also 13-year-old boys who weigh 100 pounds or less.

The Junior Pee Wee team is for boys weighing 65 pounds or less and who are 9 years old or younger by Sept. 2 of this year.

Candidates for these teams should report tomorrow at the Coolidge baseball field at 5:30 p.m. or call Bob Patrick at 931-3390.

Gridiron teams begin practice

Three area high schools — Madison, Granite City North and South — joined more than 500 other schools in the state today in opening the Illinois High School Association football season with practice sessions on their respective grid fields.

Under IHSA rules, no school may organize or practice its football team before the start of the regular school day.

The local coaches will be taking a hard, long look at the potential players throughout this first week of practice to determine a player roster before the actual season competition gets under way in September.

Players must engage in a minimum of 10 days of practice (excluding Saturday) before the first game against a team from another school.

Both Granite City high schools will open the Quad-City area schedule on Sept. 6, each other.

Madison High will play host to the Wentzville, Mo., high school on Sept. 7 for its season opener.

Petrillo eliminated in regional softball

Granite City's Petrillo produces women's slow-pitch softball team, lost its bid for the weekend, ending its regional victory in the Women's Regional 24 double-elimination tournament at St. Charles, Ill.

After having captured its second consecutive state softball crown this summer Petrillo's represented Illinois in the regional and posted a 2-2 won-loss record.

The local team got past round one by defeating Fox Valley at Edgerton, under the eye of Bob Guelker, coach.

The Cougar kickers, who lost to the region's champion NC A' college Division I champions, the St. Louis University Bills — last year, are expected to be even stronger this year.

Their great start, Chris Carenza, who had a 300-plus foot triple.

The blanks "3" Carenza was red suited last year because of a knee injury. He currently is playing in Japan with two other SIU E' soccer stars, John Strainay and Bobby Keesen.

The trio are members of the United States Olympic soccer squad.

"We're holding one-a-day drills, starting at 6:30 p.m. until Sept. 9, when we'll go to twice-a-day sessions 10 a'clock to 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.," Guelker said.

"Missing from the first drills is the freshman sensation Greg Makowski, a graduate of St. Louis' Rosary High. He'll be playing for the United States youth junior team next month.

Last week the youthful rider lost his bid for the fourth consecutive year to the season-feature race victory. The Lone Star state now has a 7-3 record at the local speedway.

California's Chuck Palmgren joined St. Louis' Neale Keen and Oklahoma's Randy Creek among the Texan winners, finishing the lead in the regional this season.

Time trials will get underway at 7 p.m. and the first heat race is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Yates 800 points and third place in the season point standings behind Granite City's Rod Bailey, who won 1,000 points.

The point leader, John Wolfmeier, has 1,100 points toward the season championship.

Late model stock car action is set for 8 p.m. Scherer's victory lane for the third time this year and move into fourth position in that division's point standings with 1,510 points.

Len Gitterman, St. Charles, Mo., heads the late model contingent with 1,490 points.

Pontoon Beach's Wib Spalding did not compete in the program and yielded second place in the standings to Russ Schutte.

Making it to the finals of the rec. 18-year-old U.S. Olympic trials, Makowski is expected to be a strong contender for one of the four "USA" varsity backfield positions.

The Cougar kickers will tune up for their regular 18-game schedule with two exhibition games in Edwardsville, the first against Mattoon, Aug. 29, and the second against their own club on Sept. 7, 8th.

The Cougars then will open their regular soccer schedule with two games on the road, down to Springfield, Sept. 14 and 15 against Colorado College.

The Juvenile Division saw the Granite City Rebels post a 4-0 win over Bridgeton, Mo., Saturday and then defeat Alton 5-2 in yesterday's championship contest.

Akron University will be the Cougars' first home for Saturday, Sept. 21.

Nestle defeated St. Mary's of Madison 21-0 Saturday and then downed Mercer 11-8 Sunday in the Ann Division.

Midwest competition Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300 emerged the overall victor after having defeated St. Joseph of Cahokia 4-3 and then Mercer 8-7 in the 4-3.

The Juvenile Division saw the Granite City Rebels post a 4-0 win over Bridgeton, Mo., Saturday and then defeat Alton 5-2 in yesterday's championship contest.

Braves end with 5-1 game, their 29th victory of 1974

The Granite City Braves put the finishing touch on their 29th baseball season at Wilco Park Thursday by falling behind the five-hit performance of leftfielder Hurley Hilt, Scott, who defeated Kirby Clasen, 5-1.

The victory gave the Braves a 25-1 season log, while the Classies finished with a 48-8 slate.

No other squad could break the ice until Hazelwood scored in the top of the sixth as a result of two walks, a sacrifice and an error.

The Braves, in the home half of that inning, whipped together all of their runs.

Hilt, Scott and Jim Jackson drew back-to-back walks, and both runners scored as Jeff Scarborough powered a triple into centerfield. Brian Sikes singled Scarborough home. Kirk Champion's single advanced Sikes, and the two walks scored on Randy Lyter's triple.

Scott retired the opposing squad in order in the seventh to preserve the victory.

Rich Schmidt, whose 497 base hits contributed heavily to the Braves' success, was named the most valuable player by his teammates.

Randy Lyter was chosen as the team's top pitcher. He had an 8-2 record and a 1.93 earned run average.

The visitors scored four runs in the opening inning, two in the second, six in the fourth and one

Springfield bureau—More businesslike billing and payment system needed by Illinois Public Aid Department in its financing of medical services

Gov. Daniel Walker is taking precisely the correct step in ordering an immediate investigation of state payments to bill-collecting companies, firms who operate in the gray land between the bill payer and the goods furnisher.

If reports are true, the situation as it involves the Department of Public Aid payments has reached almost scandalous proportion.

The collecting companies buy up medical bills from hospitals, doctors and others who provide medical services to the poor, and act as a sort of middleman to collect the payments from the Department of Public Aid.

A report of the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare shows that some of these companies made a 24 to 35 per cent profit on the medical bills. We are not opposed to profits, but we wonder at their magnitude and confess some puzzlement that such profits are available in collecting bills from the state of Illinois.

It may be that Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, with backing from State Comptroller George Lindberg, has hit on a temporary solution. He suggested that the Public Aid Department pay 80 per cent of hospital, doctor and druggist bills immediately upon their submission. That could eliminate, he feels, the current practice of turning the bills over to collection agencies at a discount. The remaining 20 per cent could be withheld from payment until an audit showed the bills were legitimate and should be paid in full.

That is all well and good, if it solves the problem right away while an investigation proceeds. But it appears obvious to us that the entire system needs change; perhaps by establishing a more credible, businesslike billing and payment system by the Public Aid Department for its vendors.

Slow payment by the state of bills in the medical area has long been a vexing problem. It has the effect of discouraging some small companies from bidding on state business in the first instance. And that affects the free interplay of the marketplace, which could have the effect of raising the prices the state pays.

Last year Springfield Rep. James T. Londrigan won House passage of a bill that would have required the state to pay within 90 days. But the bill was lost in the usual end-of-session confusion in the Senate. He now says he plans to introduce a similar measure in the 1975 legislature.

We are pleased that HEW has uncovered the problem and we are hopeful that actions by state officials, Democratic and Republican alike, in a spirit of nonpartisanship without placing party blame will assist in clearing it up before it reaches the proportion of a major scandal.

Certainly, the state should be able to pay its bills promptly in this day of giant computers and their facility for discerning questionable billing, and for getting the bills paid. The whole matter makes little practical sense.

Washington bureau—Assurance of continuity in American foreign policy important because of nation's impact on worldwide peace and security

A reporter found an English man standing next to him in the crowd that gathered outside the White House waiting for news about the impending resignation of the President. Why was a foreign visitor so concerned about an American crisis? "It's just as important to us in England as it is to you in America," the Londoner said. "The American president is the leader of the Western world."

The President of the United States is indeed the dominant figure of the Western world — not through any force of his personality but by virtue of the office he holds. The transfer of the presidency from Richard Nixon to Gerald Ford created almost as much suspense and concern abroad as it did here.

As the chief architect of U.S. foreign policy, the president touches the lives of millions of people beyond our own borders. As commander in chief of the armed forces on which dozens of our allies depend for their security, the very survival of many nations besides his own rests in the president's hands. It is no wonder that Mr. Ford's accession to the presidency has aroused a great deal of uncertainty in foreign capitals — and no little curiosity.

Mr. Ford's long experience in Congress and the regular briefings on foreign policy and national security affairs he received as vice president make him no stranger to the international responsibilities that go with his new office. However, he is in many ways a stranger to the free world statesmen now looking to him for leadership.

Richard Nixon hoped to leave a "lasting structure of peace" as his presidential legacy. Time will tell whether the initiatives he took on the world stage will fulfill that hope. President Ford inherits a foreign policy with great possibilities for peace, but with great dangers of miscalculating threats to peace. Above all, he has taken the reins at a time of great challenge to the power and moral leadership inherent in the office of the American presidency.

Sun power heats four schools in U. S.

The nation's school systems gradually will be phased into the government's drive to use the sun's power as an energy source.

Solar energy already is more meaningful to students at Grover Cleveland Junior High School in Dorchester, Mass., now that a General Electric Co. experimental solar heating system funded by the National Science Foundation is providing part of the school's heat.

Under a Research Applied to National Needs (RANN) contract from NASA, GE's Space Division, Valley Forge, Pa., has modified the school's conventional electrical heating system to accept supplemental solar heat.

Whenever the system generates more heat than is needed, the excess is stored in a 2,000-gallon heat storage tank. From here, the water can be pumped to the solar heat exchangers, providing heat to the classrooms whenever clouds obscure the sun and the solar panels are not absorbing heat.

D. F. Huebner, general manager of the Space Division, beneath two rigid sheets of clear plastic. A tubing network inside the black surface is filled with a water-antifreeze solution.

Solar energy from the sun passes through the plastic by the dark surface and converted into heat which, in turn, is transferred to the liquid. The hot solution then passes through the tubing network to a series of special solar heat exchangers that work in conjunction with two of the school's 10 conventional heating units. The solar system supplements the heat air that warms a portion of the building to a comfortable temperature.

Whenever the system generates more heat than is needed, the excess is stored in a 2,000-gallon heat storage tank. From here, the water can be pumped to the solar heat exchangers, providing heat to the classrooms whenever clouds obscure the sun and the solar panels are not absorbing heat.

The system contains approximately 10 panels, each measuring four by eight feet. The solar panels consist of a black, heat-absorbing surface that warms the panels. A pump system is designed to provide up to 20 per cent of the heat required to warm the elementary school buildings. The percentage will vary according to such factors as outside temperature, cloudiness, relative humidity and the time of day, he points out.

Grover Cleveland Junior High is one of four U.S. public schools that are using solar energy as a supplemental heat source this year under the same RANN project. The others are Timonium Intermediate School in Baltimore, Md.; Palqueer County High School, Warrenton, Va., and North View Junior High School, Osseo, Minn.

Under another RANN contract, GE's Space Division and the University of Pennsylvania are one of three industry-university teams conducting feasibility studies on the use of solar energy to provide heating, air conditioning and hot water for buildings.

Primary mission of the multiphase RANN program is to stimulate and speed widespread use of solar energy, not only in schools but in many types of structures where it is economically practical.

If the four-school program is successful, it will be widened to include schools in many regions of the nation, especially in the Midwest,

East and South.

NSF scientists estimate about a fourth of the energy consumed in the United States is used for buildings.

The foundations believe successful completion of the RANN solar energy programs will offer the nation a practical, nonpolluting and inexhaustible energy alternative.

Southern Illinois medical students thorough, dedicated

SPRINGFIELD — At the convention of the American Medical Association here last week, the students of the same June, well-heeled mid-aged doctors were seen loading shopping bags with free souvenirs from the exhibits — giveaways like little ears of soap.

A psychiatrist hypothesized that these doctors, having attained financial success, are looking for rewards. They need love, said psychiatrist Howard Kern, and that's what the trinkets represent: small tokens of esteem from the public.

The same day that story appeared, social workers at the convention testimony before a U.S. Senate health subcommittee that Adolf Hitler resembled U.S. doctors and medical students in three main traits: idealism, sexism, sadism and greed — all fostered, he said, by the reward and status system of U.S. medical education.

A reporter tried out these quotes in points of departure in an interview with six Southern Illinois University medical students — Anderson, Witges, Steve Goettler, Steve Wallace, Mike Darnelle and Maurice Miller, who share an old house near the school. Springfield students are among 40 students who participate in the Springfield campus of the medical school recently to begin their second year of training. They already had spent a year on the Carbondale campus.

Age of the students range from 22 to 26. Most are fresh out of college, though Miller was an accountant and a house painter before applying to medical school. All were science majors, undergraduate students changing in junior year from secretarial science to microbiology.

"Everybody needs love" was the laconic, somewhat earnest response of some of the group on the theory that "doctors need love."

On the Hitler analogy, they were more talkative.

"I think there probably are medical students who are motivated by idealism, but not by the profession provides," said Goettler, "but you can't say it about all of them. Admissions committees know students have some awareness of the problems in selecting a doctor. If you tell your patients to serve humanity, they treat that as being off the deep end... but to say status and money play no part probably wouldn't be truthful."

Medical school de-emphasizes competitiveness among the students, in fact encourages sharing of information among the students and allows them to take care of over if they fall the first time.

The only grades are "S" and "U" for satisfactory and unsatisfactory, and the students may take longer than the usual four years to get an M.D. SIU is among the few med schools now trying the three-year curriculum, instead of the usual four.

Students are difficult, said the students, sometimes. Other times, Darnelle confessed, "It's so easy I can take off a few days or a week."

But Miller joked that the students fit another stereotype of medical students.

"We are not classically defined, excessively competitive people," he said with a smile.

"Meaning we like everything in its place. It's more than just physical neatness, it's mental order."

Medical education in Illinois has been a long-standing tradition for medical education in Illinois in the past has been that more graduates go to California and stay here. SIU Medical School was specifically to bring medical students to the Midwest and southern Illinois, so the students are, at least in theory, committed to staying.

For them, it may be more or less a sure thing. Among those interviewed, all but one are single and usually a doctor stays in the area where she or he is educated and marries.

Rural areas, however,

aren't going to be very attractive to them because of the lack of sophisticated medical equipment and medical colleagues:

Said Anderson, "Doctors and patients here the facilities are good. You learn a lot in medical school and you don't want to go back to antiquated methods. You want to practice the best medicine."

Literally, though, he offers the chance to mix with other doctors so they can keep up with the fast pace of medical knowledge.

An excess of patients is another problem for small town physicians.

"A lot of towns offer to pay for a fellow's education," said Miller. "Then he comes to town and the townspersons don't understand why he leaves after practice begins." There are some feelings or wanting to stay.

Rural areas, however,

aren't going to be very attractive to them because of the lack of sophisticated medical equipment and medical col-

Literally, though, he offers the chance to mix with other doctors so they can keep up with the fast pace of medical knowledge.

The students favor review of other doctors' performances by other doctors, but not by persons untrained in medicine.

They have similar reservations about self-help clinics where women teach each other about their bodies, and perform gynecological examinations. Such clinics exist in big cities.

Miller said self-examination and self-diagnosis could be dangerous.

"A significant number of cancers are overlooked by physicians," he said. "So imagine what the untrained eye will overlook. Anyone can use a speculum (a gynecological instrument). It's like looking through a window. Anyone can look through a window."

Part of the intent of women's self-help clinics, however, is simply to demystify medicine and the students appeared favorable toward that idea.

"Medicine," said Darnelle, "isn't magic. I hope to explain to my patients what I am doing and why."

Declining enrollment forcing education cutbacks

Zero population enthusiasts may regard America's declining birthrate as an environmental blessing. Educators view it with mixed feelings.

For one thing, the impact is felt in shrinking school enrollment.

In the first time in 28 years, the total enrollment in American schools and colleges, which had been expanding steadily, showed an actual decline of about 400,000 in 1972. The reversal of the upward trend was caused by a drop in elementary school enrollment estimated at 1.7 percent.

The decline has continued, notably at the elementary school age level. The falling birthrate, reflecting the "baby bust" of the 1960s, was indicated in a report which showed that enrollment in the elementary school age decreased from more than 20 million in 1960 to about 17 million in 1970, a record 15.5 per cent drop.

The reduced enrollment growth means not only a diminishing demand for teachers, but diminishing resources for many schools, which determine how many teachers according to enrollment-based formulas. It also means that the public, already feeling a dollar pinch, is taking a more critical look at requests for bigger cuts in outlays for various reforms and new programs that could be justified so long as the era of educational expansion continued.

As a result, some painful realignments are having to be made.

Some schools have already had to be closed, and many more institutions may have to follow during the next decade.

"When we get down to it, schools get expensive to operate," Deputy Supt. William Stegemann told the San Diego City Board of Education when closure of two elementary schools and reassignment of pupils to other schools in the district was announced recently.

The squeeze is also being felt at some universities, which have had to discontinue services provided departments of the university.

New York University has had to dispense with an entire satellite campus.

In the 1973-74 academic year there were an estimated 500,000 vacant places on the nation's campuses, although this was attributed to overexpansion on the campus rather than to declining enrollment.

The nation's growth in the lower school-age level could lead to sagging college enrollments in about 10 years, however.

The heavy fixed costs which universities must continue to bear in the form of long-term commitments to teachers and large investments in plant and equipment poses a problem for administrators who have to try cutting expenses.

The post-World War II "baby boom" brought an increasing flood of young people into the nation's school system in the fifties and sixties, and drove up the demand for teachers. Now, as young persons move up and on to college, emerge later into the labor market, many of them looking for teaching jobs.

The labor market for beginning teachers, however, has deteriorated rapidly at the elementary school level as well as the college level.

Impact of the falling birthrate was first felt at the elementary level, where enrollment have been shrinking

1960.

Secondary school enrollments are also leveling off and are likely to decline absolutely after 1977.

The expected decade of growth in colleges and universities in the 1980's renders the outlook less encouraging, particularly for the smaller, primarily oriented toward academic employment.

Addressing itself to this problem, the National Education Association made a survey which indicated that students are already adding to their bleak prospects of fewer teaching opportunities.

The Association anticipated that the supply of qualified beginning teachers would decline during the period 1976-77, as college students shifted away from teacher preparation as a career choice.

Even so, it is expected that in 1976-77 there still will be three qualified applicants for every two beginning teaching positions.

Q. On my doctor's advice, I installed an air-conditioner in my room to help me breathe due to an allergy. Is the cost of the air-conditioner a deductible medical expense?

A. Yes. The cost of the air-conditioner plus operating expenses less any rebate or tax credit you receive counts as a medical expense provided that the air-conditioner is used for medical purposes. For example, if you have a person with a respiratory ailment, it does not become a permanent part of the dwelling and it may be removed to other quarters.

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the first week of Sept. 1. L. Pullin, director of the bureau's regional office in Kansas City, Kan., announced today.

The survey is conducted monthly by the bureau for the scientifically designed sample of households throughout the entire United States. The employment and unemployment statistics which are based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the mother.

For example, in June the survey indicated that there were 30.9 million men and women in the civilian labor force, and 86.2 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate, 5.2 per cent, was at a level that has held fairly consistent since the beginning of the year.

Data supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Springfield is that the party is random. The Republicans are watching carefully to see if U. S. Sen. Charles H. Percy of Kenilworth is chosen for vice-president. This is considered about the only way Percy can keep alive his chances for a future presidential nomination.

It is taken for granted that Ford will be the 1976 GOP presidential nominee and Percy has indicated in the past that he would not challenge Ford if the latter became President. But should Ford choose Percy as vice-president he could come into Illinois to campaign for GOP candidates in the fall. His million plus plurality in 1972 reflects a high standing with independent voters.

All in all the 1974 election in Illinois now appears much closer than was the outlook a week ago. Nothing can be granted.

2,250 at BPW national convention

More than 2,250 attending the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Chicago were welcomed by Illinois Gov. Dan Walker and heard William F. McCurdy, president of the Sears Roebuck Foundation, announce a $300,000 grant to aid women in graduate schools.

Delegates attending from the Granite City BPW Club were Miss Annellen Smith, president, and Mrs. Rosemary Basden, vice president. Alternate delegates were Mrs. Pauline Weil and Mrs. Sylvia Wright.

Gov. Walker issued a proclamation in observance of the national convention being held in Illinois and praised the organization for its achievements in programs of vital concern to women.

In announcing the $300,000 grant to the National Foundation, McCurdy said that Sears Roebuck Co. has promoted the advancement of women in management since 1955.

Miss Jean McCarrey, national BPW president, spoke of the progress and achievements make it a better place for the boys to grow up."

E. Roy Grisham, council president, urged everyone for making time to work with the boys, and said that their efforts were reflected in the Scouting movement. He challenged everyone to start with the boys at an early age to teach them respect, self-respect and a better life forever.

Blasingame instructed the Cub leaders on procedures to follow for a successful school night, while Charles Taylor, Scout executive, explained by Ray Gaudette Sr., Bill Monica, council executive, spoke to the Scouts.

Awards of a "Be Prepared for Life" patch to the boy scouts who participated in a pedro patch for taking Boy Life magazine, a coffee mug to Unit Leaders who make commitments, a unit streamer to the unit that achieved the highest percentage gain in plaque to the Cub Unit and Scout Troop with the highest percentage gain, during the recruitment period were explained by Mark Yehling, district executive.

A prize was awarded to Pete Wilson, Cubmaster of Pack 107, sponsored by Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307.

The meeting closed with a reading by John Schrader. Following the meeting, the unit leaders met with the school night coordinators to plan the coming program. Registration and the book store were handled by Charles Taylor, Scout executive for Pack 107, sponsored by the First United Presbyterian Church. Refreshments were handled by Sandy Buford, Den Leader of Pack 141, Mitchell School PTA. Seventy five persons attended.

Women of Moose fete recorders

Mrs. Marian Lipscomb reviewed aspects of a star recorder's function for members of the Moose Club, Chapter 247, at a meeting at the Moose Lodge last week.

The speaker, who serves as star recorder for the local chapter, said six members of Chapter 247 had achieved recorder status, including Madames Ella McKittrick, Helen Oberlin, Margaret Fronzberger, Emma Laird and Mildred Votoupa.

Mrs. Lipscomb described activities of the star recorders' international convention in Chicago attended by 8,000 recorders, representing 1,660 Women of the Moose chapters. During the event, 267 women received star recorder certificates and 912 members were presented College of Regents' awards.

Mrs. McKittrick, Chapter 247's first star recorder who attained the rank in 1960, also addressed the group.

Mrs. Bertha Duddy of Wood River Chapter 285, a past recorder, also spoke and discussed plans for a membership drive.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Nancy Hamilton, senior regent.

Coming events were announced by Mrs. Sara Gusewelle and Mrs. Edith Rodgers, including Academy of Friendship meetings set on the third Wednesday of each month.

The annual picnic will take place this Wednesday. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Gusewelle, at 656-0076, or Mrs. Rodgers, at 451-6583.

Illinois Power to file for 'limited firm' rate

Illinois Power Co. said Friday it plans to file in a few days a new "limited firm gas service rate" to be made available to interruptible customers. Some of natural gas who are on special low interruptible rates.

The new rate will follow the guidelines set forth in an order by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The order came 11 months after IP petitioned for a new set of priorities for natural gas.

The ICC rejected the petition, but directed the company, in the alternative, to establish the new rate for present interruptible customers.

Under the ICC directive, IP interruptible customers who now enjoy special low rates for service subject to frequent cutoff in times of peak gas usage, can convert to the new limited firm rate and be assured of continued service.

Gas customers who remain under the ICC for such customers, would be priced at 12¢ per therm for the first year of service, 17¢ for the second year, and 22¢ for the third year. After that, rates would be at a cost of 10 per cent in excess of alternative fuel prices.

"The rate structure set by the commission may encourage interruptible gas customers to shift to 'firm' service where possible," C. W. Wells, IP vice president, said. "To the extent it does it would make more gas available for firm customers such as residential and other small space heat customers."

IP filed its petition for a new set of priorities for natural gas of filing 11 months ago.

The commission order appears to provide the solution, while at the same time offering a means for non-interruptible gas customers to remain on our gas lines, if necessary, the new rate,"

Wells said full details of the new rate will be disclosed at the time of filing. Customers affected will have 30 days after filing to opt out of the new pricing. The company then will be able to determine how much gas can be made available for release to new residential space heating applicants.

"This is the lowest national projection since 1963," Howlett said, "but by no means does it mean we're safe to lower toll ever more in Illinois."

"The Terminal Railroad Association will begin use of its $3.6 million computerized "hump" rail classification yard at Madison, following a dedication ceremony at the site at 10:45 a.m. Wednesday.

The $3.6 million project is part of Terminal Railroad's Madison yard complex. It features a hump from which rail cars roll toward 32 new classification tracks; automatic tie-downs to automatically hold moving cars; air-activated switches to route cars to proper tracks; electronic switching controls housed in a tower next to the hump, and an electronic scale to weigh cars rolling over the hump.

The new yard is expected to expedite rail car handling, T.R.R.A. officials said.

Howlett said the National Safety Council will lose their lives over the Labor Day weekend.

OF THE

MADISON COUNTY,
PLAINTIFF DIVISION
NOTICE OF CLAIM DATE

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF ROYAL CLIF-FORDBYARD, DECEASED,

No. 73-P-562

Notice is given of the death of the above named and letters Testamentary were issued October 30, A.D. 1973, to Royal C. Barney of 3550 Lynch Ave., Granite City, Illinois whose attorneys are Lueders, Schaefer, and Kristen of Granite City, Illinois and the Monday, October 7, A.D. 1974, is the claim date for the estate.

Claims against said estate should be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Private Division, at the County Courthouse in Edaville, Illinois, and copies thereof mailed or delivered to said legal representative and to said attorney of record.

On Saturday, Sept. 1, at 2 p.m. the annual Almad Shrine Circus will open its week long run in Belleville. It will play three days, Sept. 7, 8 and 9 on Sunday, Saturday and Monday with shows at 2 and 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, and 7:30 p.m. on Monday, at the Belleville Beau-Clair Fairgrounds.

The Granite City Circus will be at the Tri-City Speedway, 101 N. Main St. with all shows being held at 7:30 p.m. The circus at Granite City will be held at the Tri-City Speedway in Granite City.

Prices remain the same, $2 for adults, $1 for children.

Almad Temple, one of the 176 Shrine Temples in North America served 218 youngsters from this area to the St. Louis Shriners Hospital last year for care, and 23 to the Burns Center in Chicago. The Shrine gave more than $1 million dollars for the operation of the 22 hospitals and does not receive any money from insurance, state or federal money.

Because school will have started, the circus matinees on weekdays have been discontinued and the starting time in the evening moved up a little earlier. Usually the circus has been at 7 p.m. and matinees were for the children, but fire burned the Fairmount Race Track where the circus was to have played, which means a complete new schedule.

Some of the top acts include "The Flying Wallendas," the one and only female who comes to training wild animals. She gets in the ring with the jungle man-eaters, including lions, tigers, and black bears. There will also be "Borosini's Conga-Langa Revue. Bobby has two orangutans displayed together along with chimps and monkeys doing their stilt walking.

There also will be an aerial attraction, the Flying Del-Stees.

Five male elephants will perform.

William Popkes, Chief Rabban of Almad Temple, is general chairman.

'Chicago' headlines final festival week

The popular rock group Chicago will highlight the final week of activities at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville this week.

Tonight, a series of "Holocaust" films will be shown.

A Bluegrass Jamboree is set for tomorrow and Chicago will appear on Wednesday in a concert which is expected to draw the largest crowd of this year's festival.

The Abrasovic Yugoslavian Dancers will appear and Seals and Crofts will appear Saturday night.

All shows begin at 8:30 p.m. The films will be shown in the "Holocaust" category in "Dr. Strangelove," the President of the United States and the Premier of the Soviet Union cooperate in a bizarre effort to save the world from total disaster; "Fall Safe" stars

Henry Fonda and Walter Matthau in an examination of man's reaction to the threat of nuclear war; and John Frankenheimer directs "Seven Days in May."

All three films may be seen for the price of $2 for general admission or $1 for students.

Tuesday's Bluegrass Jamboree brings five different headliners to the festival: The Country Gentlemen, The New Grass Revival, Earl Crowe and the band, Bryan Bowers, and Country Gazette.

The Country Gentlemen do not have a "country" look. The group performs in white tie and tails and have played in such places as Philharmonic Hall in New York and the King of Spades Memorial Hunt in Virginia.

The musical style of "The Country Gentlemen" is a blend of folk, country, rock blues, jazz and classical.

Making quite a different appearance will be the New Grass Revival, a young Louisville string band and bluegrass group with jeans and long hair. They like to adapt modern pieces to bluegrass by altering rhythms and integrating chords.

Earl Crowe and the New South Hall from Lexington, Ky., and perform traditional bluegrass music. Members of the group are Tony Rice, guitar; Earl Rice, mandolin; Bob Strode, bass, and J. D. Crowe, banjo.

Country Gazette do not have a "country" look. The group performs in white tie and tails and have played in such places as Philharmonic Hall in New York and the King of Spades Memorial Hunt in Virginia.
